Ratisbon, April 11, N. S.

THE French Army here is in great Motion, and Marshal Broglio is said to intend to relieve Egra, which the Austrian General Festetitz still keeps blocked up; to which End the French Forces are in full March: On the 9th Instant the Cavalry marched by this City for Amberg, where the general Rendezvous is appointed, and Yesterday the Infantry followed: They left a Garrison in Stadt-am-Hoff, over-against this City, to secure their great Magazine there, and mounted a great deal of Artillery on the Redouts and other Fortifications newly raised. Marshal Broglio set out Yesterday from Straubingen to join his Army, and dined at Werth, a Place belonging to the Bishop of Ratisbon, in whose Name he was complimented and magnificently entertained. The Austrian Field-Marshal Prince Lobkowitz, expecting to be attacked, is drawing his Forces together, and has received a considerable Reinforcement of some Thousands of Men from Count Khevenhuller, with which he will endeavour to oppose the Entrance of the French into Bohemia; so that there is great Likelihood of a bloody Action ensuing in these Parts, on the Success of which a great deal will depend: It is probable that the French, in order to cover their Retreat, will place a Garrison of their own Troops in this City. The Austrians however seem to make no great Account of these Prepations, and Prince Lobkowitz writes from Neubourg in the Forest of the 4th Instant, that the Austrian Recruits, and Horses for remounting their Cavalry, were arrived in such Numbers at the Regiments under his Command, that they were sooner compleated than he had expected: That as for the rest, he hoped the Enemies would not much boast of their late Attempt upon his Hussars, whom they endeavoured to surprize, but were roughly received and repulsed. He farther writes of the 7th Instant, that more Recruits and remounting Horses arrived daily at his Quarters, and in so good Condition, that even the French Officers who passed by could not sufficiently admire them; whereas the Deserters coming over from their Side were in the most miserable Condition. That the Regiment of Transylvanian Hussars newly raised, consisting of 1000 Horse, as likewise a numerous Corps of Croatians, were actually on their March to join him, so that he might be able to open the Campaign sooner than he at first expected. A Hessian Officer writes from Lauffen in the Archbishoprick of Saltzbourg, of the 4th Instant, that they were obliged to draw themselves together there along the River Saltza, because an Austrian Corps of about 10000 Men was assembled near Newmark and Siegerstein, on the Frontiers of the said Archbishoprick, and that their Deserters report, that their Intention is to force the Pass at Lauffen, and to make another Irruption into Bavaria: But that on their Side, they are taking the necessary Measures for Defence, in fortifying Lauffen, where the Inhabitants are already disarmed by Order of the Imperial Field-Marshal Count Seckendorff, and in keeping the River Saltza well guarded; that they daily expect a Succour of 12000 Men, of which some were already arrived. Just now we hear, that the French are removing their Hospitals from Stadt-am-Hoff to Ingolstad and Donawerth, whence it is conjectured, that if they miscarry in their Design, they will hardly return hither.

Franckfort, April 17. His Imperial Majesty set out this Morning with the Prince Royal his Son for Munich. The Empress and the Princess Royal will remain here some Time longer.

Aix la Chapelle, April 18, N. S. To-morrow the Earl of Stair will set out from hence towards the Rhine, in order to put himself at the Head of his Majesty's Troops, which are upon their March to pass that River in eight Columns at Andernach opposite to Coblentz. Orders are given to the English Horse and the rest of the Hanoverian Troops which remained in Brabant, to march up to the Army with all Expedition; and Lieutenant General Campbell is to remain here till the Arrival of those Troops in this Neighbourhood.

Aix la Chapelle, April 19. We have had heavy Snows these fifteen Days past, which still continue, and all the Inclemency of Weather that is usual in these Parts in the Month of January. Lord Stair is this Day set out to pass the Rhine, and proposes to be at Neuwied, to meet and confer with the Duke d'Aremberg, on Sunday or Monday next. General Clayton is expected here on Monday next.

Liege, April 19. We have the worst Season here that ever was known, which must equally retard the March of the Troops on all Sides. The Roofs of Houses are cover'd with Snow even in this Town, but in the Country, particularly in the Ardennes, where the Snow lodges, 'tis said, to be two Foot deep.

Hambourg,

[Price Two-pence.]

Hambourg, April 19, N. S. The Ruſſian Reſident, M. Heinzon, performed Yeſterday, in the uſual Manner, the Ceremony of preſenting the Dutcheſs Dowager of Holſtein, in the Name of her Czariſh Majeſty, with the Order of St. Catharine: The Diamonds and Pearls with which the Croſs and Star are ornamented, are eſteemed worth 20,000 Rubles. The Foreign Miniſters and ſeveral Perſons of Diſtinction were invited to aſſiſt at the Ceremony; and in the Evening there was a grand Supper. Letters from Stockholm of the 9th Inſtant, N. S. brought the News of the Swedes having retaken Poſſeſſion of the Iſland of Aland; and thoſe of the 14th, which are juſt arrived, confirm it with theſe Particulars, That they had made 142 Priſoners, found upon the Iſland ſome Hundreds of Ruſſian Sailors, and a Booty in Money of about 10,000 Crowns. Since the Arrival at Stockholm of a Courier from Abo, the ſecret Committee has acquainted the Body of Nobles, that the Court of Ruſſia was come to a very favourable Explanation, and that they were in hopes that Peace would be the happy Fruits of it; that the Contents of the Diſpatches demanded Secrecy, and therefore were not of a Nature to be communicated to the Plenum, but that the Committee would take Care to diſpatch the proper and final Inſtructions to the Swediſh Plenipotentiaries. We hear from Copenhagen, that the Man of War of 90 Guns, called Chriſtian VI. is fitted out, and Orders are given that the whole Naval Armament be ready to ſail by the 27th of this Month, and that Fifteen thouſand Men are to encamp near Chriſtiana in Norway.

Hague, April 23, N. S. The Advices from Ferrara of the 7th Inſtant mention, that on the 1ſt, a Body of Auſtrian Huſſars being advanced as far as Forli in the Romagna, and having fallen upon the Rear of M. de Gages Army, the Spaniards were at firſt put into Diſorder; but that they having received a Supply of 800 Horſe, the Auſtrians found themſelves forced to make their Retreat: The ſame Letters add, that about Fifty Men have been killed on each Side. The Province of Zealand has not yet ſent in her Reſolution upon the Propoſition of Holland for the March of 20,000 Men, the Town of Zierikzee not having hitherto come into it. They write from Nurenberg of the 11th of this Month, that the Bavarians had been worſted at Burgleenfelt, and abandoned by the French, and that the Auſtrians had taken the Poſt of Vilzheven.

Oſtend, April 23. The Tranſports with Brigadier-General Brag's Regiment, arrived Yeſterday in this Road, and came ſafe into the Harbour this Morning: They lie on board To-night, and go in Bilanders To-morrow for Bruges.
